WILL NOT BE AT CHICAGO

Declaration of Independence Not to be Exhibited.

Danger of Being Tampered With by Cranks Should It be Taken to the World's Fair.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The most historical and one of the most important features of the government display at the World's fair, the exhibition of the declaration of independence and constitution, has been abandoned, owing to protests from historical societies throughout the country and persons interested in preserving these valuable documents from injury, which however slight, must necessarily have followed to some extent in their shipment from the state department to Chicago, and the wear and tear they were bound to undergo in exposing them every day for the edification and instruction of thousands of persons at the exhibition, many of whom would have regarded these manuscripts, on account of the relations they bear to the functions of the government from its infancy to the present day, as the most valuable exhibit made by any department of the executive branch.

The drafts of the declaration of independence and the constitution which are greatly treasured by the state department and looked upon with the greatest respect by its employes, will not go to Chicago after all but will remain where they are and will not be subjected to the possibility of becoming in any way tampered with by cranks. When it was first proposed sending these documents to the fair some months ago it was thought by many unwise, but at last the orders were given that they were to go and the most elaborate preparations were made to secure safe transportation and protect them while at the fair.

The fact is they are in more danger from interference from outsiders now than they would ever be in Chicago, or en route, as no precautions are taken that would prevent any one from walking off with them at any time during office hours. From the opening of the department in the morning until the close of official business the declaration is exhibited in a wooden case with a plain glass over it, and the only protection afforded is two wooden mahogany doors swinging open the greater part of the time and upon which is a card informing persons that all any one has to do is to turn the key, open the door and look at the faded parchment.

The constitution is kept in another part of the room and is equally unprotected. There is nothing to prevent a person from carrying both cases off at once, or taking the documents out, concealing them under a good sized overcoat and quietly walking out of the building.

Some weeks ago protests from the society of the Sons of the Revolution and other historical societies and prominent persons began to come into the department against the removal of the papers on account of the danger that might follow. Mr. Curtis' attention was brought to the matter and he has written a letter to the secretary of state stating that the scheme had better be abandoned. The secretary has taken the matter under consideration and it is practically settled that the documents will remain in Washington.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Maxwell today appointed 136 fourth class postmasters, which involved fifty-nine removals. The largest number of appointments was made in Indiana, where there were thirty-six, including eighteen removals. In Missouri there were sixteen appointments and seven removals; in Tennessee, twenty appointments and seven removals, in Vermont, eleven appointments and ten removals; in Kentucky, nine appointments and two removals, and in West Virginia, eight appointments, all the incumbents having resigned.

D. M. Hall, of Maine, has been appointed property clerk in the department of agriculture, vice Henry Phelps, resigned.

Secretary Morton has appointed five state agents in the department of agriculture to take effect April 1. They are: Frank A. Dilacush, of Illinois, vice S. D. Fisher, removed; A. S. Mercer, of Wyoming, vice E. A. Slack, removed; G. L. Fryar, of Tennessee, vice T. B. Reeves, removed; L. M. Fay, of Wisconsin, vice N. C. Adams, removed; Nathan Pratt, of Delaware, vice Daniel B. Stewart, removed.

Secretary Morton, of the department of agriculture, has devised a plan to test the fitness of applicants for positions in the department that are not governed by civil service rules. Each aspirant in filing his application will be required to answer certain questions as to moral and physical fitness, and also questions bearing upon the work he desires to perform. This will enable the secretary to more accurately determine the qualifications of applicants and attain a higher standard of work in the department.

The quarterly statement of southern industries, prepared by the Tradesman, of Chattanooga, Tenn., shows that for the first quarter of 1893 the new industries estimate exceed those of the first quarter of 1892 by 198. While for the first quarter of this year only eight development companies have been incorporated, during the same period for last year twenty-seven were formed. The quarter just ended also shows seventy-six cotton and woolen mills established, fifty-nine flour and grist mills, twenty-nine canning factories, forty oil mills and the building of thirty-two water works plants.

A DILATORY BLAST

Fools Three Men and Explodes Unexpectedly.

One Man Killed, One Will Die and One May Possibly Recover From Severe Injuries.

PITTSBURG, March 31.—Late yesterday afternoon three quarrymen named Houseman, Ryan and Kimmell, working in Ryan & Brown's stone quarry, near Aetna station, on the Pittsburg and Western railroad, were blown up by an explosion of dynamite.

The workmen had ignited a fuse leading to a blast and retired to a place of safety. The fuse was so slow that they concluded it had been extinguished and returned to relight it. Just as they reached the spot a terrific explosion occurred.

Houseman died from his injuries during last night. Ryan is in an extremely critical condition and cannot recover. Kimmell was less severely hurt and will get well. Houseman leaves a large family. Ryan, who is a son of one of the owners of the quarry, is married.

Death of a Prominent Lady.

TORONTO, Ont., March 31.—Mrs. McKenzie, widow of the late Alexander McKenzie, ex-premier of Canada, died this morning.

BIGGEST SCANDAL OF ALL

Treasury Officials Connected With Smuggling Business.

Immense Quantities of Opium Brought Into This Country Without the Paying of a Duty.

TACOMA, Wash., March 31.—A forerunner of the biggest scandal in the customs service that ever happened on Puget Sound was the seizure of the Chinamen on the Haytien Republic in Portland a few days ago. This seizure of Chinamen for being illegally in the country was an important matter in itself, especially as the removal of two local custom inspectors followed. This however is but the beginning of the end.

Within a few days it will be shown that the owners of this steamer were in collusion with high officials of the treasury department in carrying on a gigantic smuggling business.

The last time Haytien Republic was in Vancouver she was fined $100 for taking opium out of Canada without its having been entered on her invoices. Upon the steamer's arrival on this side of the line there is no record that even a pound of the opium she carried paid duty.

The last time that the Haytien Republic was in Victoria she was libelled for $15,000 which was, as stated in the records of the court, for prepared opium sold to the owners of the vessel and which had not been paid for. The steamer was released on bonds being given and she started on her trip with the contraband Chinamen who were apprehended.

The above facts are of record in the Canadian courts and can easily be substantiated. Ten tons of prepared opium is the amount that this boat alone has smuggled within the last few months under the eyes and with the practical consent of certain high customs house officials. Now that those in office expect to be out of a job, they have overdone what in a quiet way has been going on regularly. They have not been honest among themselves and several are ready to turn states evidence to shield themselves.

BUTTER FAMINE

WABASH, Ind., March 31.—There is a butter famine in this city, occasioned by the creamery consuming all the milk in this vicinity. The high price for butter has warranted paying farmers a high price for milk, and the farmers sold their product to the creamery instead of making butter. The creamery has a contract with a Buffalo, N. Y. firm to take its entire product, and the eastern firm, upon ascertaining that the creamery was supplying the local merchants, notified the management that every pound must be shipped to them, or else the contract would be canceled. The creamery thereupon shut off the local merchants. There is not a pound of country butter in the market, and consumers are grumbling.

BITTER CONTEST

Imminent at the Columbus, Ohio, Municipal Election

Between Catholics and the A. P. A. Over the Division of the Public School Funds.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 31.—The municipal election to occur next Monday is attracting great attention. It is a bitter fight being waged between the Catholics and the American Protective association, composed of both republicans and democrats pledged to vote against every Catholic and Catholic sympathizer. They claim a membership of 10,000 and if they win it is expected they will dismiss every Catholic teacher in the public schools.

The Catholics are working for a division of the public school funds. A Catholic priest here is out in a public card announcing the withholding of public funds from parochial schools as an oppression to be righted at the polls. Every day shows but to intensify the bitter feeling.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

Bishop Hurst Delivers an Address and Ministers Respond by Raising $2,200 for the University.

MISHAWAKA, Ind., March 31.—At the North Indiana conference yesterday Bishop Hurst spoke at some length in behalf of the National university at Washington, D. C., where post graduate and professional studies of the highest grades may be pursued. He detailed the history of the institution and its progress, and the plan of support. No subscriptions are received, except those made by Methodist ministers. If a layman contributes it must be in the name of the Methodist ministry. He solicited members of the conference to give $100, with three years to pay it, and $2,200 was pledged. W. D. Parr, J. T. Neal and J. B. Cook were appointed a committee to continue soliciting for the university during the year.

A committee was appointed to try the appeal of A. S. Nelson, a local preacher of Noblesville. T. D. Sharp and G. S. V. Howard were given supernumerary relations. E. F. Albertson was left without an appointment, to attend school. At 10 o'clock the Preachers' Aid society convened. The old officers were re-elected, and a change was proposed for the constitution. E. F. Hasty was appointed to receive $1,000 willed to the society by Samuel Wallace, of New Burlington. The regular conference business was then resumed. Reports were received from the presiding elders and pastors of Muncie, Richmond and Fort Wayne districts. A vote of thanks was extended to Judge Redding for a liberal donation to the Missionary society. At 2 o'clock the Woman's Home Missionary society held its anniversary service. The conference treasurer made her report, and an address was delivered by Mrs. E. L. Albright of Delaware, Ohio.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The minister of France at Washington has informed the state department that the French ministry of public instruction and the fine arts has appointed Messrs. Compayre, Charnay, Cherrillion, Hallex and Martin, and Misses Doyard and Viand as delegates to the Columbian exhibition at Chicago.

Applicants for consular positions are getting scared on account of the reported spread of cholera in Europe and South American ports. Many of them are changing their applications for positions under the interior and treasury departments.

THE KINDERGARTEN.

After the opening songs and games each little boy chose his mate.

Willie McGrath and Esther Paul led the march.

When the children marched to the table each little mate found two dainty Easter cards and two Easter eggs exactly alike by which to designate their places.

The children's work was displayed on tables on the platform.

Three of the children, Willie McGrath, Esther Paul and Neal McKay, graduated in the public school.

When the exercises were over, the three little graduates stood while their little mates formed a circle and marched around, shook hands and bid them God speed.

If you want to see one of the beautiful sights of Fort Wayne, drop in some morning at Plymouth Congregational church kindergarten.

The spring term will open Monday, April 3, 1893.

All children over three years of age received.

THEATER BURNED.

Doxey Music Hall at Anderson, Ind., Destroyed.

A Big Electric Light Plant at McKeesport Burned and the City Will be in Darkness Tonight.

ANDERSON, Ind., March 31.—Doxey music hall and theater burned last night. The loss is total and amounts to $70,000, with some $20,000 insurance. Thos Denny was seriously cut on his head by falling timbers. Ray Jeffries' foot was mashed and Dr Johnson's wrist was dislocated while removing furniture.

McKEESPORT, Pa., March 31.—This morning at 8:30 the McKeesport electric light company's plant caught fire and was totally destroyed. The loss will be from $75,000 to $100,000. The blaze was ignited by a torch in the hands of an oiler coming in contact with a bunch of oil soaked waste which communicated the flames to an oil barrel, which exploded, scattering the fire in all directions. The city public highways will be left in darkness tonight unless the three private light plants here can be connected with the public street wires and provide light. The Duquesne Electric railway and Citizens Electric railway are also left without power.

BOTH ARE RIGHT.

Health Officer Miller and the Garbage Man Disagree.

The Doctor Says Garbage Must be Put in Tight Boxes and Mr. Scheele Says "No."

There seems to be a conflict of authority between Health Officer Miller and Garbage Master Scheele.

Dr Miller says that he will require all garbage vessels to be water tight. The drainage from garbage is the most dangerous of all. It saturates the earth about the garbage vessel and when the hot rays of the sun fall upon the spot a vapor arises and poisons the atmosphere.

Garbage Master Scheele refers the health officer to a city ordinance which reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any and all persons to throw in any street or alley, any vegetable or animal waste, or other rubbish.

"Any and all persons having in and about their premises any of the above articles must place the animal and vegetable refuse in suitable cans or vessels convenient to handle with perforated bottoms, that all liquid matter may run off, and placed in rear of lot or in alley so as to be reached by garbage gatherer. The material of the second class, cans, boots, shoes and other rubbish to be placed in separate box of proper size for one man to handle and placed in a convenient place to be reached by garbage gatherer.

"Any person violating any of the provisions herein mentioned to be fined not less than $3 nor more than $5."

It is clearly evident that drainage from garbage is as dangerous, if not more so, than the garbage itself. Health Officer Miller is right in discouraging the accumulation of wet slops, but the garbage man is protected by a city ordinance.

The safe and proper thing for property owners to do is to have their garbage drained into the sewers before turning it over to the garbage man.

NO TROUBLE TODAY.

Serious Times Ahead, is the Situation at Antelope.

Both Sides Resting on Their Arms—Indian Agent Bennett Accused of Treason.

PARIS, Tex., March 31.—The situation at Antelope remains unchanged. Both sides are resting on their arms and waiting the arrival of Governor Jones. He was expected to arrive at 10 o'clock this morning, but for some unknown reason did not put in an appearance. There is no train that he can reach Antelope on until 6.35 p. m. Considerable feeling is being created against Indian Agent Bennett. He refuses to reply to telegrams and cannot be communicated with. Some people go so far in their criticism as to accuse him with being in collusion with the Indians. There came near being a riot at the militia camp this morning. A deputy marshal seized a quantity of liquor that a militiaman was endeavoring to smuggle into camp and spilled it on the ground. The militiaman called his comrades to his assistance and matters looked serious for a while. At 12 o'clock noon everything indicated that no trouble would occur today.

He was fined $5 and costs, but judgment was suspended providing that he make an effort to provide for his family. It is understood that the family is about to be turned out of their Lewis street home on account of back rent not having been paid.

The supreme court of Indiana rendered Thursday a decision which will be of interest to the many members of mutual benefit societies in Fort Wayne. The decision is as follows:

"Where an applicant for membership in a mutual benefit society falsely designates in his application the beneficiary named by him as his wife, it is neither a warranty nor a material representation, and does not relieve the society from liability on the certificate of membership to the beneficiary. Nor does the fact that he failed to disclose misdeeds and wrong doings of his past life operate as such a legal fraud upon the order as to justify it in refusing to pay his certificate to his beneficiary after accepting him as a member and collecting dues and assessments from him until his death, where the order does not depend upon him to inform it as to his moral qualifications. When the laws of the order do not provide for the benefit to be paid primarily to the widow and designate as a class of beneficiaries those dependent upon the member, and one has deserted his wife and unlawfully married another woman, who entered into the marriage in good faith without knowledge of his previous marriage and bore him children, and who is designated as his beneficiary in a certificate of membership in a mutual benefit society, such woman is entitled to the benefit as one dependent upon him as against his lawful wife."

The chattle mortgage case against Messrs Stapleford & Storer, the auction men at 5 East Main street, was compromised last night. E. F. Neade takes charge of the store as bookkeeper and cashier, and the store is open for business.

BOUND OVER.

Lyburger Up for Trial Before Commissioner Leonard.

He is Held to Await the Action of the Federal Grand Jury—Very Smooth.

At first it was thought by the police that it would be a difficult matter to convict Winfield Lyburger, the fellow arrested on Wednesday for trying to pass a $50 counterfeit at Levi Brothers clothing house. Since the arrest evidence has come to light which will make it difficult for the prisoner to clear himself. It is very plain that he knew the $50 bill was no good. On Wednesday morning about 6 o'clock he went into Fred Schmuckle's saloon, near the Aveline hotel, and wanted to buy a gallon of whisky, pay for a breakfast and get some tobacco. He tendered the bartender the $50 greenback, but as the hour was early the change could not be made and Lyburger went out without his liquor. Tuesday night he put up at the Heyer boarding house on the corner of Railroad and Calhoun streets. In the morning he handed the landlady the same $50 note. The change was not handy and the fellow said that he would return and pay his bill later in the day. He claimed to have a partner. On Tuesday night Lyburger tried to pass the bogus money on L. A. Ivan, night ticket agent at the Pennsylvania office. Mr. Ivan told the man that it was a counterfeit and a rank one at that.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the prisoner was taken before United States Commissioner Leonard, in the Government building. After hearing the evidence the commissioner bound him over to await the action of the federal grand jury.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 31.—The circuit court was crowded yesterday morning, when, at 9:15 o'clock, Judge Langdon and the jury in the case against the rioters took their accustomed seats. It was the first day for the defense and the statement of what they expected to prove was made by A. L. Kumler, the leading attorney for the prisoners.

He said that there would be no denial of the riot, nor that pistols were fired on that occasion. The question would be who fired the shot, and the defendant would maintain that he fired no weapon. The defense expected to prove that the defendant was a gas fitter, was an experienced plumber, knew where the opera house meter was, having helped to pipe gas thereto. It would further appear that Murphy had no part in the conspiracy, and that until after the riot he had no acquaintance with any of the defendants, and had not been in the company of any of them for days and weeks prior to the opera house trouble. It would appear that Mr. Murphy left his place of business on the night of the riot a few minutes before 8 o'clock, in company with an engineer and young Ries, neither of whom are Catholics, that they then came down the middle of Fourth street and to the opera house; that on the way the party passed the place of Phil McCauley and Heinz proceeded to purchase the tickets at the opera house ticket window, but that Murphy said he would buy the tickets and accordingly purchased five tickets for fifty cents, that they went into the gallery and finding no seating room went below and took standing room near the radiator, that when there was a vacant seat in section E, perhaps seat fifty-nine, Murphy sat down; that Heinz and Ries sat on the foot rest of the ushers chairs and that while they were sitting there it was impossible for them to see the stage. It would appear that a noise was heard on the stage, a man with a pole appeared, Rudolph was struck, that shots were fired, but that the first shots were fired from the stage; that a panic ensued, and that Murphy did not leave his seat, nor advance down the outer aisle of F, and fire a shot; that Murphy got up when the trouble began and was carried out of the opera house by the current, and was seen outside of the house before the shooting was over; that he went there as a citizen, and that he was not guilty of the offense charged.

Louis A. Heinz was the first witness called. He stated that he was present at the riot. Went in company with Murphy and young Ries, and proceeded down the middle of Fourth street. Did not stop at McCauley's place. Witness offered to purchase tickets, when Murphy said: "Never mind, I'll pay for them." Leaving the gallery witness and party went below and stopped at the radiator. Murphy sat down and witness and Ries took a seat on the usherers' chairs platform. Murphy sat in seat 59, second row of section E. From where he sat witness could not see the stage, but Murphy was in plain view. The pistol shot was all the noise he heard and when the trouble began Murphy was sitting in seat 59 and went out with the rest. On the way out witness looked around and saw Murphy just behind him and he was carried out with the crowd. Did not see Murphy leave his seat and could see him all the times. Returning to the opera house, saw people climbing on the stage and turned around and went home.

Harry C. Smith, jr., of South Third street, a printer's apprentice, and sold opera glasses at the opera house, was present at the riot, had known Murphy two years and saw him standing north of the west register. Murphy sat in seat 59, section E. The first shooting was on the stage, heard three shots there. Murphy sat in seat 59 while the trouble on the stage was going on and saw him during the riot on the outside of the house. Witness left the opera house and went to the Lahr house and returning saw Murphy on the street and did not see him engaged in a boisterous or disorderly conduct.

James Sharp, the next witness, in describing the stage trouble, stated that Rudolph fired twice at the man with the pole. Rudolph was the only man he saw with a pistol. The first shot came from the east side of the stage. After Rudolph fired there were several shots from the audience, but could not state where they came from, some appeared to come from the front of the opera house.

A large number of ladies were present in the afternoon when court convened at 1:30 o'clock. William Bantz, Patrick Flynn and Michael Theennes were the witnesses examined. Theennes stated he was at the opera house on the night of the riot in company with James Sharp and sat with Sharp in seat 51, section E. Murphy was standing against the radiator with five or six others. Murphy took seat 59 in section E and did not notice him until after the shooting commenced, when he arose and started out. At that time there had been eight or nine shots fired. Saw Murphy after the trouble in the opera house [illegible] he had been sitting.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

THIS is Good Friday, the most solemn day of the Lenten period, as it is the anniversary of Christ's burial.

A BARBER shop at Jackson, Miss., was robbed the other day. The authorities are on the track of the thief and if he escapes he will have a close shave.

MAY and September are to be the fashionable months at the Chicago exposition, and most of the swell New Yorkers will make up parties to go in private cars.

WITH the advent of spring the small boy comes forth with his air gun, and women and children and persons generally are more in danger than the birds the young hopefuls are endeavoring to kill.

THE result of the special meeting of the board of trustees of the Indiana University, is the selection of Prof. Joseph Swain as president, in place of Dr. John M. Coulter, who goes to Lake Forest to accept the presidency of that institution.

NOW that spring is here what do you propose to do that will add to your property home? Can't you beautify your premises by painting and repairs, and fix up your sidewalks? Try and see what the result will be.

IF you have any business with a man of business, call in the hours of business, conduct your business like a man of business, then go about your business so that the man of business can attend to his business. That's business.

THE truth of the adage, "Politics makes strange bedfellows," was never better illustrated than in the case of the Chicago Times, which is now heart and soul supporting Carter H. Harrison for mayor. Only two short years ago the Times denounced Harrison as a corruptionist and a tool of the gamblers. But the Times wasn't owned by Carter then.

PEOPLE who imagine that they are simply donating to a newspaper money paid for advertisements and that advertisements are never read should know that one of the New York dailies charges, and gets it too, $7,000 for a single day's insertion of a full page display advertisement. Think of a firm of successful business men making a $5,000 daily donation for advertising that "people do not read."

THE American Bible society made an interesting exhibition at the centennial in 1876, but this is to be greatly surpassed by the display to be made at Chicago. The resources of the American as a Biblemaker and circulator will be fully demonstrated and set forth. The Bible has been printed in 300 languages, and it is a curious fact that in printed form it has outlasted several languages. There is an Indian Bible in existence which it is said but one living man can read. The reading of the same book, though, in many varied tongues has doubtless done much to promote the mutual acquaintanceship of the human family and the brotherhood of man. "The Universal Book" will be displayed as never before at the World's exposition.

PRESIDENT HIGGINBOTHAM, of the world's fair Columbian exposition, in order to correct certain erroneous statements in regard to the fair, says the admission of fifty cents will entitle the visitor to see and enter all the exposition buildings, inspect the exhibits, and, in short, to see everything within the exposition grounds except the Esquimaux village and the reproduction of the Colorado cliff dwellings. For these, as well as for the special attractions on Midway Plaisance, a small fee will be charged.

Local History.

"We teach our children of the glorious deeds of the Greeks at Thermopylae, of Napoleon at Austerlitz, of Nev at Waterloo, of Sheridan at Winchester. Why not teach them as well of the brave deeds of their ancestors here at home?" asks Winfield S. Nevins in the New England Magazine. "Our school histories tell of Bunker Hill and Concord and Lexington, and other home events, in the same general way that they tell of Saratoga and Yorktown, enough, perhaps, for a general study. But the children of Charlestown should know the story of Bunker Hill in detail, the children of Concord and Lexington should be taught the details of that April day in 1775. What more honorable pages in all our history than those that tell us of the deeds of the men of Marblehead, on land and sea, in 1775, in 1812 and again in 1861—the pages that tell of Mugford and Gerry and Story, of Phillips and Martin? Yet how little of this the children of that town find in their school histories! We might go on with the story of the first armed resistance to British aggression at the North Bridge in Salem, the resistance of the Worcester yeomen to the Mandamus councilors, the struggles at Ticonderoga and Crown Point, and other historic episodes all over New England. There is hardly a town in New England that is not the birthplace, or has not been the home, of some man or woman whose memory the whole country or perhaps all the world delights to honor."

DEAD as whaling is on the Atlantic coast it is sufficiently lively on the Pacific, though the most valuable product of the voyage is no longer oil, but whalebone. The crude bone fetches in San Francisco from four dollars to six dollars a pound, and a great many hundred pounds may be taken from the mouth of a single whale. The demand is steady, and much of the bone is used in the manufacture of rich and heavy silks. No substitute has been found for it here, though other things are used for corsets and stays. Dressmakers make the use of real whalebone the excuse for charging especially high prices for their work, and the genuine article is vastly more durable and satisfactory than any substitute.

NEW YORK genius has invented a machine for the self propulsion of ships. It consists of long strong platforms, rigged out on either side of a vessel, that rise and fall with the roll of the waves and operate a propeller. The motion of these platforms in a strong sea would be similar to that of the pump handles of the old-fashioned fire engines when the "boys" were "shaking her up lively." The inventor thinks that the tendency of these outriggers would be to steady the vessel as well as to force it forward. They would operate in a "dead" calm nearly as well as in a storm, for the ocean is never at rest.

THE southern negro is the political opposite of the anarchist. He has a feminine belief in the possibility of compassing any end by legislative enactment, and a childish faith in the certainty of redress for real or fancied wrong at the hands of the court. The police and justices' courts of every southern city are choked with cases instigated by negroes against neighbors of their own race, and the threat of one negro to "have the law on" another is made and accepted with wholesome faith on both sides in the effectiveness of such proceeding.

WHEN the news of Hoke Smith's appointment reached Monongahela county, West Virginia, there was great excitement among the friends of a local celebrity named Polk Smith. They thought a mistake had been made in the name, and the excitement was not quelled until the Morgantown Post announced that "It was Hoke Smith, of Georgia, and not Polk Smith, of Monongalia."

A SOCIAL philosopher remarks that a man with a quail on toast appetite and a beef stew purse will never get rich. That is very true, providing the man indulges his appetite. But there are many of us with millionaire feelings who plod along in a workaday fashion day after day and content ourselves with our beef stew so long as we can lay up riches for our landlords.

SINCE jeweled tiaras became the rage among rich women New York jewelers have produced many fabulously expensive things of this sort. Regular coronets are not uncommon, and one jeweler has made to order for a New York woman a reproduction of one of Queen Victoria's crowns, an elaborate affair of gold enriched with handsome work and jewels.

ALL the mountain sheep in Colorado are owned by the state and carefully protected. The penalty of slaying a mountain sheep in Colorado is ten years in the penitentiary. This is probably the severest game law upon the statute books of any state, but it is occasionally violated.

THE city of Washington is supposed to have taken in two million five hundred thousand dollars from visitors to the inauguration. And this does not include doctors' bills and the cost of cough medicines.

ADVICE FROM A PHYSICIAN.

"As a physician and as a citizen I deplore the evils which are wrought among our people by the alcoholic poison. I deplore these evils in common, I believe, with all physicians, and in common, I hope, with all thoughtful citizens. We know that our jails, our workhouses, our hospitals, our lunatic asylums and our asylums for idiots receive a large proportion of their inmates in consequence of the destruction which alcohol works on men's minds and on their morals, their bodies and their fortunes.

"Will you allow me to impress upon you a great and particular danger which the drinking of alcohol brings with it? Medical science, by the aid of microscopic research, has made great progress during the last 10 years in the knowledge of the causes and cure of many common diseases. We have learned that many diseases owe their origin and characteristics to minute micro-organisms, which come to us in the food we eat, the fluids we drink, the air we breathe, the clothes we wear, or the things we touch.

"These micro-organisms find their way into the blood and tissues of the living human body and multiply there, and each kind of them produces in that body its own characteristic and special disease. There is one kind of micro-organism for typhoid fever, another for erysipelas, another for consumption, and so on. Each produces its like and its own and no other, just as a cabbage comes from a cabbage and a cocoanut from a cocoanut.

"Now, how is it, seeing that these noxious micro-organisms are so numerous and so prevalent, that we do not oftener fall victims to them? We have found out the reason. There are within our bodies, in our blood and in our tissues numberless little cells which protect us. These cells are known as leucocytes. When a healthy leucocyte meets a disease producing micro-organism, when this little guardian of our health and of our lives meets his enemy in the gate, it becomes very active to destroy it; it spreads itself out, encompasses the micro-organism, takes it within itself and consumes it.

"We have found out, too, that many agents have a paralyzing action upon leucocytes and destroy their power of dealing with the micro-organisms of disease in the way I have described. One of these agents is alcohol. So you may be sure that if you are in the way of infectious disease your risk of taking that disease is increased if your body be in the least degree under the influence of alcohol."

It may be appropriately added that the above cause is cited by other famous scientists for the frequent fatal result of disease in an habitual drinker. —From an Address by Sir James Sawyer.

The Men Who Succeed Do Not Drink.

If you have not already become accustomed to drink, and if you are careful in the selection of your friends and associates, the temptation to drink will be slight. You will see a saloon on the corner, but no one will compel you to enter. Men enter saloons because they desire to drink. You may be occasionally invited to drink, but in any case the quiet statement that you do not drink will be accepted as final. The young men who are urged to drink and ridiculed because they do not drink (in the temperance stories) have put themselves in bad company.

It goes without saying that drink and success do not go together. A drunken gambler may possibly win high stakes, but in order to succeed in legitimate business one must have a clear brain. The day merchants, financiers and kings of commerce are at least temperate in drink. Most of them are total abstainers.

You cannot make a worse mistake than to say, "I will drink or let it alone, just as I please." Almost always men starting in this way finally choose to drink. No fact is better established than that alcohol weakens the will. Let the stuff alone if you want to succeed.

But I need not prolong the sermon on this subject. All your books and the columns of your local papers teem with warnings against drink.—Voice.

No Beer In That Bucket.

The following is a "true story" that actually happened: A man from the new house near by came in at the alley gate and into the kitchen where a mother was working for the comfort of her family. He asked for a bucket. The men working on the brick wall were thirsty, and he would take them a drink. The bucket was brought. The lady, remarking on the discomfort of working in the hot sun that midsummer day, offered to fill the bucket at her well. The water was so cool men from offices and stores near by often came or sent for water from that well.

Reaching out for the bucket, the man declined the water, saying in a friendly tone that the men would like beer better than water—he only wanted a bucket to carry it in. Steadily the bucket was held back as the lady said, "I am sorry; I cannot lend a bucket of mine for beer. Why, I dare not. I have three boys, and what would they think if I let beer be carried in anything from my kitchen. I am sorry you wanted it for that. Should my boys drink liquor when they are grown, they must not say they ever saw beer in anything belonging to their mother—not with her consent. Good day." "Good day."—World's White Ribbon.

Things to Remember.

Drinking beer will spoil good cheer.

Who boozeth over grog will soon be in a fog.

Where strong drink enters folly centers.

Small beer gives small cheer.

The biggest poorhouse is near Gin lane.

Dictionaries declare gin is a snare.

Strong ale makes the strong ail.—Spurgeon.

It is a plain fact that twenty per cent. of the deaths in our larger cities are caused by consumption; and when we reflect that this terrible disease can be forestalled by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup shall we condemn the sufferers for their negligence, or pity them for their ignorance.

If the Minnesota Legislature passes that bill making it against the law to wear hoopskirts every woman in the State will have one as soon as it can be bought.

"Salvation Oil cured me of a shoulder lameness and pain in back, contracted playing ball last season. I tried several other remedies and all failed. Chas. Mears, 132 Water St., Cleveland, O."

There's danger in a cough—more than ever when your blood is "bad." It makes things easy for Consumption. But there's a cure for it in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. A positive cure—not only for Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma and all lingering Coughs, but for Consumption itself in all its earlier stages. It's reasonable. All these diseases depend on tainted blood. Consumption is simply lung-scrofula. And for every form of scrofula and blood-taint, the "Discovery" is a certain remedy. It's so certain that its makers guarantee it to benefit or cure, in every case, or the money is refunded. With a medicine that is certain, this can be done.

There's a Cure for Catarrh, too, no matter what you've been led to believe. If there isn't, in your case, you'll get $500 cash. It's a bona fide offer that's made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

They are willing to take the risk—you ought to be glad to take the medicine.

FASHION AND DRAMA.

PRECISION IN DRESS OF PARISIAN ACTRESSES.

The Costly Costumes of Sara Bernhardt —How Her Tailor's Bill Drove Her from Paris—Influence of the Stage on Fashion.

GREAT CARE IS always taken by Parisian actresses to adopt the exact style of dress befitting the scene in which they appear; therefore the public is not only shown handsome, dressy toilets, but all sorts; and can make its choice among them. It has been the habit lately to bewail the degeneracy of the drama, and the immense importance given to toilet on the stage is taken as proof of its literary weakness. There is no doubt that an author who writes a society comedy containing a large number of female characters placed in such situations that they can show off a maximum of elegant and pretty clothes has a much greater chance of getting his play enacted at one of the fashionable houses than he who composes a piece without reckoning upon such secondary methods of attraction. As usual, there are many ways of looking at a question, and considering it from the standpoint of the ordinary public, and from that of trade generally, it is certain that the stage is of great use as an annex of the couturier's show room, as, although the drama may lose somewhat of its prestige thereby, we cannot be expected to condemn it. At the same time, however, there is also something to be said against, even from a tradesman's point of view, and something also from that of the actress herself. Parisian artists, if successful, command large salaries; but large as they may be, they are not sufficiently so to enable them to defray the cost of the various toilets they are called upon to wear in each new play for which they are cast, even with the aid of a special credit, often opened for the purpose by the director of the theater. Therefore they often run into debt and are hampered for years by long accounts, the settling day for which is often indefinitely postponed. It will be remembered how Mme. Sarah Bernhardt courted bankruptcy in this manner, and the £25,000 she once owed a famous couturier was, perhaps, one of the reasons she had to abandon playing in Paris for the more profitable tours around the world, in which she has of late indulged. As the number of society plays increased and as the questions of toilet gained in importance, dressmakers began to use the stage as a method of advertisement. This new arrangement had its drawbacks as well as its advantages. Of course it was of immense advantage to the house providing the toilets for a new play to have its name mentioned in the papers, and the actresses were glad enough to obtain the clothes at reduced rates on this understanding. Still, it often led to difficulties, and one particular instance has just come before the public, which does not show up the system in its best light. A famous dressmaker who had made a name, particularly as a purveyor of stage toilets, came to grief some months ago and was obliged to give up the management of her house of business. Her landlord, who was her chief creditor, forthwith sued Mlle. Bloche—an ex-dancer—for a bill of £340, for various costumes provided by the couturier in question. The affair came before the courts and it was proved by the evidence that the articles had been delivered on the understanding that no payment was required for them. One of the actresses of the Français appeared as a witness and declared that she had been pestered with offers from this particular house, and that after having refused to be dressed free of charge, she had arranged to pay £4 each for all gowns supplied of whatever sort, adding that, as they did not, as a rule, meet with her approbation she had finally declined to treat on any terms. A chief assistant also made some curious revelations, from which it appeared that ladies as well as actresses, were wont to accept dresses for which they paid nothing, in return for the introduction of profitable customers. The verdict was against the landlord. All this has little to do with the chief fact, namely, the influence of the stage on fashion which is likely to increase rather than diminish as the time goes on in spite of the opposition of those who have at heart the welfare of the drama, and also in spite of such little episodes as the one played out at the tribunal on the Seine last week, which only prove that this system, like everything else, has a seamy side. Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism but it can be done, if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from James Lambert, of New Brunswick, Ill.: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right today; and would insist on every one who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

SAVING POSTAGE STAMPS.

The Humbug of Sending Them Away for Charitable Work.

In an article on the above subject, the Golden Rule, of Boston, Dr. Clark's paper and the organ of Christian Endeavor societies of the United states, says

"It is a common experience with the editors of religious papers to receive letters from people anxious to do good, making inquiries regarding the world famous humbug, the million of postage stamps. Some society wishes to buy a set of singing books, or a church wants an organ, or a poor cripple is to be supported,—and it is to be done by the collection of a million postage stamps. The humbug has more lives than a cat and more heads than the most polycephalous monster of mythology, but here goes for one head, anyway. Many hundreds of thousands of the stamps thus collected by well-meaning people fall into the hands of dishonest rogues, who wash them, and sell them for second use. Part, however, are honestly bundled off to foreign countries, and there sold, or exchanged for foreign stamps that are sold here. But a million stamps! Look at the waste of time. No collector can hope to average more than one hundred stamps a day, no matter how great a nuisance he makes of himself, begging of his friends. At this rate it would take twenty seven and a half years to earn the largest sum we ever heard of as given for a million stamps, namely, one hundred dollars. And, by the way, we have never heard who it is that will give the hundred dollars, though we have met scores of these stamp collectors. This is at the rate of one cent for a day's effort in this direction. Those million stamps would cover about six thousand square feet. Placed end to end, they would reach over fifteen miles. If the cost of sending them through the mails from all the scores of collectors who contribute to the million were given, in money, directly to the object of charity, far more money would be raised, and more sensibly as well as more easily. We believe in economy and charity, but not in economy that wastes both time and money, nor in charity that spends a dime in order to give a cent. If the stamp dealers wish their million stamps, let them empty the waste baskets of editors, and cut them out for themselves, while for the support of the poor, and the maintenance of churches and asylums, Christians give their dollars directly, and not by the childish round about of old postage stamps!"

A CARD.

The Relief Union Anxious to Pay for Their Building.

The circular letter sent out by the Relief Union has resulted so far in donations and subscription to something over $600. As many have not sent back their envelopes, leaving us in doubt as to what they would like to do, the Relief Union has authorized Miss N. M. Harding to call upon all such and receive whatever donations or subscriptions may be given. It would be very gratifying to raise the amount necessary to pay for the Industrial school building by the annual meeting of the society, April 11. Thanks are due to those who have so cordially responded to our appeal.

Cholerine in Pennsylvania.

Swickley, Penn.: We had an epidemic of cholerine, as our physicians called it, in this place lately, and I made a great hit with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. I sold four dozen bottles of it in one week and have since sold nearly a gross. This Remedy did the work and was a big advertisement for me. Several persons who had been troubled with diarrhœa for two or three weeks were cured by a few doses of this medicine.

ALAS! POOR YORICK!!

We Knew Him Well—Horatio, He Was a Fellow,

Of Infinite Jest and Most Excellent Fancy, But Ah! He Came to Grief.

The Indianapolis Journal of today contains the following account of an arrest of parties well known in this city: "Postoffice Inspector Fletcher yesterday swore out a warrant for the arrest of H. H. Paramore and H. E. Paramore, on a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purpose. They carried on what they called the Scientific Press Publishing company. Their publication was to be called the American Inventive Progress, which purported to be a compendium of notable American inventions by American inventors, compiled by A. P. Yorick, B. A., editor and journalist; William Primrose Bidwell, A. M., and General J. P. Yarington, the introduction being by Rev. John Merritt Driver, LL. D.

The plan of the company's operations was to offer to give inventors space in the book for $2, including a copy of the book. At first, it seems, the publishers offered to include a photograph of the subscriber, but latterly the scheme began to prove so profitable that a charge of $1 extra was made. Complaint was made to one of the city banks by Jonathan G. Orr, of Danville, Ala., who had sent the company $2 and had received nothing but a piece of paper, on which was printed a promise to send a copy of the book as soon as it should appear from the press. The bank referred the communication to the postoffice inspector, who at once ordered the arrest.

The book the company was thus selling is in course of composition at Blanford Brothers' printing office, on West Washington street. Mr. Fletcher said yesterday that there were only two boys working on it, and that only five pages had been set. Even if the book was printed, he said, the defendants had violated the law in putting out something of this kind through the mails without giving their right names. They were taken before Commissioner Van Buren, but were released on their own recognizance to appear for a preliminary hearing on next Tuesday."

GENERAL GIBSON.

"Senator Randall Lee Gibson was more beloved by the old soldiers of Louisiana than any other man in the state, with the possible exception of ex-Governor Francis T. Nicholls," said Howard R. Smith of Shreveport, La., to the St. Louis Republic writer. "When the news of his death at Hot Springs reached the old soldiers who fought with him during the war, there was many a wet eye all over the Pelican state. He was one of the bravest soldiers that ever commanded a regiment. He was born and raised an aristocrat, but when Louisiana seceded he was among the first to leave his palatial home, and with musket and knapsack marched to the front as a private. He was soon promoted, and at the surrender of Lee was a brigadier general. He was absolutely devoid of fear. I remember that at the battle of Mansfield Gibson's brigade was at the front of the engagement. The cannon was belching forth shot and flame, and the groans and cries of the wounded and dying were indeed enough to demoralize the strongest heart. Yet General Gibson sat there on his horse, looking cool and calm with his mind and thoughts as collected as though at his private home surrounded by peace and quietude. Couriers were galloping up to him from all directions, and he dispatched them with the orders to the different commanding officers with apparently as much imperturbability as a railroad superintendent would give orders to a brakeman. While he was writing one of his orders with his leg thrown across the horn of his saddle, a minnie ball tore off the heel of his boot. He gazed down at the mischief done for a minute and then resumed his writing. A cooler exhibition of nerve was never displayed on a battle field.

"And then, when the bloody struggle was ended, General Gibson was among the first to accept the terms of peace and to insist upon his people at once becoming loyal citizens of the union. His entire life since the close of the war has been devoted to the rehabilitation of his beloved Southland, and it is no wonder that the people of Louisiana loved him. He was a soldier, statesman and philosopher, and his name will live for many years to come among the heroic and historic people who live down among the silvery lakes of Louisiana.

What's in a Name?

Bartlett dislikes churches and lets ministers severely alone. The other day, Bartlett took his 6 months-old baby to church to have it christened. Next day, old Mrs Gadder met Bartlett on the street and spoke to him about it. "Why, Mr. Bartlett, I'm so glad to welcome you to the church. Have you seen the error of your ways?" "No, ma'am," replied Bartlett. "Then why did you take your baby to the church?" Bartlett looked out of the corner of his eye at the sharp nosed gossip and answered: "Simply for the name of the thing."

The Meaning of "Mizpah."

How many people know that the monument that Laban and Jacob set up near the borders of Canaan and called "Mizpah" or a lookout, was erected in suspicion rather than love? The literal meaning was this: "The Lord watch between thee and me when we are absent one from the other, and see that you are not up to some new trick as soon as my back is turned."

So, when it is inscribed in an engagement ring it might mean "The Lord watch and see that you do not flirt when we are absent one from the other."

Among the Sheep.

A Boise City, Idaho, little girl started across the divide for school the other day, and shortly after her departure a terrible storm set in. As she had not reached the school house by 12 o'clock it was feared that she was lost, and accordingly a searching party wandered over the hills, hoping to find some trace of the child. They at last found her in an old shed, with a number of sheep, among which she had cuddled down and thus escaped being frozen to death.

HE WANTED PUNISHMENT,

And Didn't Think He Ought to Be Let Down so Easy.

If you can think of the face which the caricaturists always use to represent Uncle Sam, and imagine the figure clothed reasonably well in modern garments, you will have a fair idea of the appearance of Thomas Clancy, of Whitestone. The old gentleman came to New York to spend a few days, and found that metropolitan whisky was more potent than country cider. He didn't get sand-bagged, he wasn't robbed or buncoed; it isn't that kind of a story that makes Mr. Clancy's experience interesting. He was well treated in New York and had a glorious time until a friendly policeman helped him into a cell.

When he came before Judge Grady in the Tombs police court next morning Mr Clancy was very penitent. He hung his head and looked at his toes, while the policeman told the judge that his prisoner was not at all a bad man, that he had done no harm, except to himself, perhaps, and that there was nothing whatever against his character.

"Discharged," said the judge.

Then Clancy raised his eyes and spoke with the typical Yankee twang.

"Your honor," he said, "I think you are mistaken. I believe I ought to be punished."

"What!" exclaimed the astonished judge.

"I think I deserve to be punished," said Clancy.

"Well, how much do you think your sentence ought to be?"

"I think, your honor, that it will take about ten days to get the liquor out of my system."

Judge Grady paused a moment and then said:

"Your wish is my will. Ten days."

"Thank you, judge," said Clancy sadly as he was led away.

Tried to Put the Fire Out.

Brownie, an Irish setter dog owned by Grant Titus, at Hillsdale, N. J., wears a silver collar which Mr. Titus gave him for saving the life of his master and mistress. Mrs. Titus, before going to bed the other night, placed a quantity of wood in the stove oven to dry. She failed to shut off the draught of the stove, which became so hot as to ignite the wood in the oven. Coals from the burning wood fell to the floor and burned a large hole. Brownie slept in the kitchen because of the cold, and at 1 a. m. his barking aroused Mr. and Mrs. Titus. The house was filled with smoke, and the fire was becoming a serious matter when they put it out. Mr. Titus says the carpet on the kitchen floor was torn all around the burned spot, and Brownie's paws were blackened in his efforts to scratch out the fire.—New York Sun.

For Mosquito Bites.

It amuses me to hear so many remedies suggested for the bites of the mosquito, and so many devices mentioned for keeping the insects out of the way, even when every window and door in the house is protected by a screen. In frontier districts, where mosquito bars and screens are alike unknown, various plans are adopted to keep off insect pests, and those who live in houses could adopt any one of them with far greater certainty of success than the unfortunate man who has to sleep in the open without a cover of any description. No mosquito will come within smelling distance of oil of cloves, and a few drops on the pillow or coverlet will keep the sleeper as safe from annoyance as a dozen thicknesses of netting. The precaution is specially desirable in the case of children, especially as the mosquito is not by any means the only insect that has a decided objection to the perfume.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Northerners and Englishmen.

More and more the plantations, graperies, and orange groves of Florida are passing into the hands of northerners and Englishmen, for an enervating climate will destroy local energies in time. The "crackers," or native population, are improving under education, but they do not grow fast mentally, and their farming is confined to a little planting near their cabins. Naturally they are a simple and hospitable people, with a speech somewhat tinctured by negro dialect. Besides fruit, Florida has a vast wealth in her phosphate beds, which are of unmeasured extent, but one capitalist says that since the investment of $30,000,000 in phosphate in the South the business had been overdone, and there is no demand for phosphate land at present.

Florida's Shell Mounds.

A ship's officer, who has spent much time on the St. John's river, Florida, thinks that he has solved the problem as to the origin of the shell mounds that occur along that stream. The river twists about in an extraordinary way, so that in many places the view along the water extends for only a few rods, but he finds that a tall object or the smoke of a fire shown from the top of one of these mounds could be seen from those next below and above, and he believes these eminences were Indian signal stations, by means of which the natives were able to announce the approach of a hostile force along the river, as the Greeks signaled the news of the fall of Troy to their home cities by lights on the mountain tops, that were repeated from peak to peak.

An Intelligent Rodent.

A farmer in Maine found a muskrat down in a barrel of sweet apples in his cellar, unable to climb out, and, with a tender and compassionate heart, took his ratship by the tail, pulled him from the barrel, and let him go. The following day the episode was repeated, and for a few days was continued till the muskrat was so well educated that when he heard his benefactor coming he would stick up his tail to be lifted out.

Electric Stage Stars.

A novel effect is introduced into the pantomime of Dick Whittington at the New Olympic theatre, London. When the hero goes to sleep to dream of success, the scene darkens, and a cloud-like screen in the background is seen to be lighted up by a multitude of tiny incandescent lamps. They twinkle and sparkle like veritable stars in the firmament. One of the most beautiful star clusters, the constellation of Hercules, is faithfully represented.

To produce the effect 400 lamps, run on twenty different circuits, are employed. For the desired variation in the brilliancy of these artificial stars, lamps of voltages are used.

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD READ THIS.

Our full line of Boys' and Children's Clothing from such celebrated makers as Smith, Gray & Co., Dayton & Close, Peck & Hauchhaus, Are now on display.

Have you an extra stout boy?

We have clothes to fit him without making any alterations.

Our object is to make you a permanent patron of our Boys and Children's department.

We believe we can do it if we can once bring you to our store and show you the kind of goods we sell and the prices we ask.

OUR BOYS' CLOTHES

Are better made than the ordinary.

WE THINK a boy's suit should be as well made as a man's. They ought not only to appear well, but they ought to wear well and fit well. Ours are built on that plan.

They are made to stand the roughest kind of usage—strong silk stitching—buttons firmly sewed and "wound"—hand-made buttonholes—Elastic waistbands—Stays firmly placed when needed—Collars "worked in"—Edges overcast—cloth thoroughly shrunk—clothing thoroughly good, because thoroughly made. We know all about Boys' Clothing.

We make it a specialty.

THE SOCIETY LEADER.

She Must be a Person of Infinite Tact to be Successful.

Affairs in the Polite World—Dinner Given by Mrs. H. C. Hartman—Personal Paragraphs.

The woman who would be a successful leader in society must possess infinite tact She must be able to say the right thing at the right moment and never by any chance wound anyone's self esteem; she must be so worldly wise as to seem genuinely unselfish, so full of consideration and sympathy as to appear full of the milk of human kindness. A tactful person will invariably remember and use your name, she will appear interested in your hobby and will listen with flattering attention to whatever you may say. She will talk children and servants with the house mother, discuss pictures with the artist, books with the author and gossip with the worldly minded. If this universal sympathy sprang from a higher motive what a noble character it would imply—for the curious part of a perfectly worldly policy is that it simulates so successfully what is best and loveliest.

JOSH BILLINGS' advice to his daughter was "Ef you kant git both money and klose, git the klose, and buy them at
